

Infantile myofibromatosis in a three-year-old boy presented as subdural hematoma

Sabiha Güngör¹, Kudret Çağlar¹, Dilaver Akdur², and Diclehan Orhan³

¹Department of Pediatrics, and ²Department of Radiology, Dr Burhan Nalbanto lu State Hospital, Nicosia, North Cyprus, Mersin; ³Department of Pediatric Pathology, Hacettepe University Faculty of Medicine, Ankara, Turkey

ABSTRACT

Infantile myofibromatosis, mostly developing at birth or in early infancy, is a rare clinical disorder characterized by myofibroblastic lesions. We report clinical, radiological and pathological features of a three-year-old boy who was diagnosed with infantile myofibromatosis originating from the occipital region contrary to radiological findings in advanced diagnostic studies.

Key words: infantile myofibromatosis, pediatric, subdural hematoma.

Correspondence to: Kudret Çağlar MD, Feride Hikmet Sokak No: 17 Taşkinköy, Nicosia, North Cyprus, PK 10 Mersin, Turkey.
Tel +90-392-2252595;
fax +90-392-2252592;
e-mail caglar@tr.net

Received August 13, 2007;
accepted January 4, 2008.