

ULTRASONOGRAPHY AND MAGNETIC RESONANCE IMAGING FINDINGS OF SOLITARY FIBROUS TUMOR OF THE LIVER

Funda Obuz¹, Mustafa Secil¹, Ozgul Sagol², Sedat Karademir³, and Omer Topalak⁴

¹Department of Radiology, ²Pathology, ³Surgery and ⁴Gastroenterology, Dokuz Eylul University School of Medicine, Izmir, Turkey

Solitary fibrous tumor of the liver is a rare neoplasm which has been reported in only 27 patients in the English literature. A limited number of reports have described the radiological findings of this tumor. We report the radiological and pathological findings in a patient with solitary fibrous tumor located in the liver.

Key words: liver neoplasm, magnetic resonance imaging, solitary fibrous tumor, ultrasonography.